Statement by NYSAR President Jennifer Vucetic on the Climate Action Council Approval of Statewide Scoping Plan

On Monday, December 19, the New York State Climate Action Council approved its final plan to reduce carbon emissions in New York.

While NYSAR supports the state's goal of reducing carbon emissions, we are disappointed by the Council's complete lack of analysis regarding the fiscal impact of their proposals on homeowners and businesses across New York. Unfortunately, this multi-year effort can't be considered comprehensive or a success without addressing the simple question, "What's it going to cost to implement its recommendations?"

As New York continues down this path to reduce greenhouse gas emissions NYSAR will continue to engage state government on these critical issues as many of the Council's proposals will require regulatory or legislative approval.
